Another year has managed to pass without major tumult.

My business, Silogic Systems, has been doing well. Not a record year but still good enough to pay the bills. We have been doing more and more software (C++ and windows) each year. I guess when you can buy almost an entire computer on a chip, there is not a lot of need for hardware design.

For skiing this past year, it was one trip to Mammoth, CA and one to Utah. My thanks will forever go out to Jim and Kathy Dix for introducing me to skiing way back during my Burroughs days. I'm actually getting good at it!

I've been doing a lot of hiking this year and it's been a lot of fun. I joined a sports club that does it (along with biking, tennis, etc). From where I live, it's about an hour drive to mountains of 5000+ feet and some real serious (read steep) hiking trails. Up there, the trees even turn colors during the fall.

The saga of my BMW continues, about a dozen more trips to the shop over the year. That makes about 25 since I got it. I've got to look into the Lemon Law...

Saw a few new bumper stickers over the past year:

Willy Wants Your Wallet

Impeach Clinton and her husband Too

Don't Blame Me, I Voted for Perot (seen on a BMW in my garage)

I'm spending Christmas here in San Diego this year. No cold weather or snow for me but I may end up going skiing at an area called Big Bear which is just north of Los Angeles.

Well, I've got to get back to what is now becoming a California Christmas tradition - decorating palm trees with Christmas lights.

Wishing you the best.
